

Cover Crop Trials

Cooperators continue to search for ways to succeed with winter cover crops, and interest in the Midwest continues as well. The three cover crop trials carried out in 1990 illustrate that cover crops can be a drawback. The National Soil Tillage Laboratory is presently working with several PFI members on methods and timing of seedings.