Equipping farmers to build resilient farms and communities.

Winter 2023 Magazine: "Pig Portraits"

In many livestock circles, there's an ongoing debate about pig breeds. Some farmers discount breed altogether, arguing that pig performance depends on whether individual animals can thrive in a given system. Is there an answer?

In this Winter 2023 magazine story, hear from farmers Ethan Book, Anna Hankins, Todd Maternach and Laura Tidrick about their favorite breeds to raise on their farms.

In true PFI style, the farmers featured don't claim to know what's right. Rather, they share their experiences with raising pigs and what's worked for them. Their approaches are diverse, but they have one thing in common: They're all on team pig.

NEWS

Cost-share opportunities available for extended rotations

This year, we're offering two forms of cost-share for those implementing extended rotations with small grains.

1. Earn up to $20 per acre for raising a small-grain with a legume cover crop.
2. Earn an additional $20 per acre for reducing nitrogen rates on 2024 corn that follows your small grain-legume cover in rotation.

Apply for one or both programs today.

Reduce your input costs with the N Rate Risk Protection Program

If you're raising corn in 2024, try reducing your nitrogen application rate with us!

If your harvest benchmark yield is not achieved, you'll be paid $35 per acre.

Farms in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska and southeastern South Dakota with acres under conventional management may be eligible.

Enroll by March 31.

Blog: "Frost-Seeding Red Clover into Winter Small Grains"

This 2018 blog post explores how frost-seeding red clover into rye or winter wheat fields in late February affects nitrogen credits, yields, disease resistance and soil health.
